- 378 Works Complete. The Text formed from a new collation of the Early Editions, to which are added all the Original Novels and Tales on which the Plays are founded, copious Archæological Annotations on each Play, an Essay on the Formation of the Text, and a Life of the Poet, by James Orchard Halliwell.

Beautifully printed on large and thick paper, and illustrated with 142 plates, comprising facsimiles of portions of rare editions of the plays, portraits, views, etc., and a great number of engravings in the text by Fairholt.

16 vols., thick royal folio, original half morocco, uncut.

London, 1853-65.

£82

Mr. Halliwell-Phillipp's object was to produce an edition of the works of Shakespeare with a collection of facts and documents respecting their literary history, by annotations on their obsolete phraseology and obscure allusions, elucidated by archaeological engravings and extracts from contemporary works adopted or alluded to by the great dramatist.

Only 150 copies of this magnificent and valuable edition were printed, and after they were complete the whole of the engravings were destroyed. It is rarely now that a copy is offered for sale, nearly all those which have occurred of late years having been bought for Public Institutions at home and abroad, and the chances are very much against any of these coming into the market again.

Supersedes all previous versions in its collation of varying texts, in fulness and richness of references and in copiousness of extracts from the vast mass of books illustrating the poet. No student would willingly forego a set which has such claims upon him as this.

The Original Typescript as prepared by George Moore for the Press, with some alterations in ink by him personally.

49 pages, small 4to.

At end the Author has written the following note:—

"A trifle given to my old friend Sir Edmund Gosse from his familiar friend George Moore."

On the first leaf Sir Edmund Gosse has made the following note:—

"All the corrections are in the Author's handwriting." E.G.

This Typescript is accompanied by a letter from George Moore to Edmund Gosse concerning the book:—

"What you say about the dialogue dropping into a monologue is quite true and my effort has been always to stem the tide of monologue. But remember the subject. I want to write an essay on the inferiority of English prose narrative as compared with English poetry, and taking advantage of your visit I beg you to listen and assist me from time to time with advice and remonstrance. And this being the subject I think I have avoided the monologue fairly well. All the same I am going to struggle against the monologue in the forth installment with all my might. The third will appear next month and you will find it better than what you have already read," etc.

This Play has among its Characters:—

William Shakespeare.

Richard Burbage,

Ben Jonson.

Queen Elizabeth.

& others.

and the Scene takes place in the gardens of the Palace at Whitehall in October 1599. It deals with Shakespeare putting on the Play of Richard II.

An interesting dialogue takes place between Bacon and Jonson.

Bacon: Essex knows all my writings; we were as brothers; his letters were written by me and my advice was sought on all matters, but unhappily seldom followed. In Essex lay my misprision and the Queen's. We judged him a great man; and I saw in him a worthy successor to Elizabeth, one who would bear high the Protestant interest in Europe. To his weaknesses I closed mine eyes, persuading myself that he would outgrow them, but they have outgrown him—and despite the many waverings which precede the Queen's every act, she will, if need be, send her darling to the scaffold, and my fear is lest I find myself compelled to ask that he be adjudged guilty. It will be hard, but I cannot suffer any hint of disloyalty. My assurances to the Queen that Essex is not the author of the play will not satisfy her.

Jonson: But it is known that "Shakespeare" is the author.

Bacon: Have I not said, Jonson, that she must have the author in flesh and blood before her?

Jonson: Ay, marry, the author not only of Richard the Second, but of The Two Gentlemen of Verona, King John, The Comedy of Errors, Much Ado about Nothing, A Midsummer Night's Dream. Will she believe that any man could have written six such excellent works, and moreover—how many are thy Henrys? Etc., etc.
